Erasmus Policy Statement

CPR Daniel Castelao (CEBEM Formación Profesional, SL) recognizes the importance of international mobility in the academic, cultural and personal development of our students. We firmly believe in the benefits of transnational cooperation in the field of higher education and actively support the Erasmus Program as an essential means to achieve these goals.

In order to take the step of internationalization of our school, we decided to base ourselves on the following fundamental principles:

- 1. Inclusivity and Diversity: We are committed to encourage the participation of all students, regardless of their socioeconomic background, gender, sexual orientation or any other characteristic. We seek to promote diversity as an enriching value for the entire academic community.
- 2. Academic Excellence: We recognize academic excellence as a fundamental pillar of higher education. Through the Erasmus Program, we seek to strengthen the quality of teaching and research, allowing our students and faculty to access educational and/or professional experiences in institutions with great experience in Erasmus mobility.
- 3. Personal and Cultural Development: We value the personal and cultural enrichment that comes from immersion in different academic and social environments. The exchange of knowledge and the interaction with different cultures contribute significantly to the integral development of our students and teachers.

Our participation in the Erasmus plus program is part of a strategy that began in 2004 and that we intend to continue in the long term. In relation to the commitment with our students and teachers for the management of an Erasmus mobility, we highlight the following:
